

23 de julio, 2019

Al Honorable Michael Pompeo
Secretario de Estado
Departamento de Estado de los Estados Unidos
Washington, D.C. 20520

Estimado secretario Pompeo:

Nosotros, los abajo firmantes, organizaciones de derechos humanos, por las libertades civiles y la justicia social, líderes religiosos, expertos, académicos y organizaciones, nos dirigimos a usted para expresar nuestra profunda preocupación por la Comisión de Derechos Inalienables del Departamento de Estado, cuya creación fue anunciada recientemente. Objetamos el propósito declarado de dicha Comisión, al que consideramos perjudicial para el esfuerzo global por proteger los derechos de todas las personas, así como un derroche de recursos. Objetamos la composición de la Comisión, que carece de diversidad ideológica y parece reflejar un claro interés por limitar los derechos humanos, incluidos los derechos de las mujeres y de las personas LGBTIQ. Objetamos también el proceso por el cual la Comisión entró en vigor y está siendo administrada, ya que ha dejado de lado a expertos en derechos humanos de la propia Oficina de Democracia, Derechos Humanos y Trabajo (DRL) del Departamento de Estado.

Lo instamos a que disuelva inmediatamente este cuerpo y centre su atención personal en los importantes desafíos que enfrenta actualmente la protección de los derechos humanos a nivel mundial.

Como usted dijo al presentar la Comisión y al afirmar la importancia de la Declaración Universal de los Derechos Humanos (DUDH) de 1948, “el lenguaje de los derechos humanos es el lenguaje propio con el que se habla sobre libertad y dignidad humana en todo el mundo, y estos son logros realmente extraordinarios”. La DUDH declara en sus primeras líneas que el reconocimiento de los derechos iguales e inalienables “de todos los miembros de la familia humana” constituyen “la base de la libertad, la justicia y la paz”.

En los Estados Unidos, la historia de los dos últimos siglos y medio es, en muchos sentidos, la historia del reconocimiento de esos derechos para afroamericanos y otras minorías, mujeres, personas LGBTIQ, personas con discapacidad, niños y otras poblaciones marginadas, a menudo a través de una lucha inmensa contra quienes limitan los derechos a unos pocos privilegiados. Asimismo, la historia del movimiento internacional por los derechos humanos es la historia del reconocimiento más profundo y el alcance protector de los derechos basada en el trabajo meticuloso de los movimientos sociales, académicos y diplomáticos, a través de acuerdos internacionales y de leyes.

Teniendo en cuenta esta historia, vemos con gran desconfianza a un organismo establecido por el gobierno de los Estados Unidos que apunta expresamente a la limitación de derechos a través de una clasificación artificial de los que son “inalienables” y los que ahora se consideran “ad hoc”. Estos términos no tienen lugar en el discurso de los derechos humanos. Es un principio fundamental de los derechos humanos que todos los derechos son universales e iguales<sup>1</sup>. Los gobiernos no pueden tomarlos o descartarlos según sus deseos. Al igual que otros gobiernos, el de los Estados Unidos está sujeto a ciertas obligaciones reglamentadas en tratados internacionales ampliamente ratificados. En el mejor de los casos, un esfuerzo dirigido a objetar este hecho bien establecido supone una pérdida de tiempo y energía que se invertiría mejor en problemas reales concernientes a los derechos humanos. Más inquietante resulta la referencia a los derechos “ad hoc”, en un lenguaje que se asemeja al utilizado por gobiernos autocráticos y dictatoriales, que frecuentemente hablan en términos de una jerarquía de derechos.

También estamos consternados por las opiniones de una mayoría significativa de los diez miembros de la Comisión. En su conjunto, la Comisión claramente incumple el requisito legal de que la membresía de un comité asesor federal sea “equitativamente equilibrado en términos de los puntos de vista representados y las funciones a ser realizadas”. Casi todos los miembros de la Comisión han centrado sus vidas profesionales y sus estudios en cuestiones de libertad religiosa, y algunos han tratado de elevarla por encima de otros derechos fundamentales. El derecho a la libertad de pensamiento, conciencia y religión es un derecho fundamental, pero solo uno de los 30 derechos consagrados en la DUDH. Ningún miembro de la Comisión centra su atención de manera tan exclusiva en cualquier otro tema apremiante contemplado en la DUDH, incluido el derecho de asilo, el derecho a no ser sometido a torturas, el derecho a protección igual y efectiva contra cualquier discriminación, o cualquiera de los derechos económicos, sociales y culturales enumerados por la DUDH, entre otros temas.

Además, la presidenta y los miembros de la Comisión son, en su gran mayoría, miembros del clero o académicos conocidos por sostener posiciones extremas que se oponen a los derechos reproductivos y LGBTIQ, y algunos han manifestado públicamente su apoyo a violaciones indefendibles de los derechos humanos. La presidenta de la Comisión ha declarado que el matrimonio igualitario socava el bienestar de los niños<sup>2</sup>. Un miembro de la Comisión ha declarado de manera similar que “el mensaje inevitable” del matrimonio entre personas del mismo sexo “es profundamente falso y perjudicial”<sup>3</sup>. Un tercer miembro de la Comisión se manifestó contra el uso de la anticoncepción, incluso cuando ese uso procura limitar la propagación de una enfermedad<sup>4</sup>. Un cuarto relacionó cuestiones vinculadas a la identidad de género con “una enfermedad mental o alguna otra patología” y la describió como “el testimonio de una cultura sin corazón”<sup>5</sup>. Un quinto sugirió que la indignación generalizada por el asesinato y desmembramiento del periodista y disidente del gobierno saudí Jamal Khashoggi tenía motivaciones políticas dirigidas contra el gobierno de los Estados Unidos<sup>6</sup>. Un sexto ha descrito al gobierno de los Emiratos Árabes Unidos como uno “comprometido con la tolerancia [...]

comprometido con la sociedad civil”, a pesar del notorio y bien documentado historial contra los derechos humanos de ese gobierno tanto en su país como en el extranjero<sup>7</sup>.

Se trata de posiciones profundamente preocupantes, y creemos firmemente que las personas que sostienen tales opiniones no tienen lugar en una comisión encargada de la promoción y protección de los derechos universales.

Por último, estamos alarmados por los informes y declaraciones que revelan que la Comisión se estableció sin el aporte de la DRL, encargada por ley de asesorar al Secretario de Estado, a través de su Subsecretario, en asuntos relacionados con la democracia y los derechos humanos. Consideramos que la idea de la Comisión de centrarse en “principios” pero no en “políticas” supone una distinción sin una diferencia significativa. En este sentido, observamos que la oficina designada por usted para apoyar el trabajo de la Comisión se denomina adecuadamente “Planificación de políticas”.

El dinero de los contribuyentes no debe desperdiciarse en esta Comisión. Un organismo creado por esta administración, con las funciones y los miembros que usted anunció públicamente, carece de credibilidad. Sus hallazgos no tendrán peso ni capacidad para redefinir los derechos humanos.

En lugar de continuar con esta Comisión, le pedimos que utilice los recursos de su oficina para tomar medidas contra los graves problemas de derechos humanos que enfrenta hoy el mundo, incluyendo el trato a quienes solicitan asilo, la retórica de la administración y el apoyo a muchos de los principales violadores de derechos humanos del mundo: usted tiene el poder de incidir directamente para mejorar esos problemas

Agradecemos su tiempo y atención en este asunto de suma importancia.

Atentamente,
